9:00 Welcome... ... This month we celebrate AAPI Heritage Month and Mental Health Awareness Month. Also, May 5th was the National Day for Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls. Today's reflection quote:

"There are many ways in which America tells you you don't belong.... A polite people, it is the facial muscles, the shoulder tension, and the silence that give away white Americans' uneasiness with people not like them. The United States, a nation of immigrants, makes strangers only of those who are visibly different, including the indigenous people of the continent. Some lessons begin in infancy, with silent performances, yet with eloquent instructions." — Shirley Geok-lin Lim, author of "Among the White Moon Faces"
